Slow Down Busy School Nights

1. Build in some time for unstructured play or downtime
2. Try to connect as a family, even if it's just an unrushed conversation about everyone's day.
3. Help ensure adequate sleep by teaching kids to plan ahead so they aren't rushing or staying up late.
4. Limit kids' technology by setting times they can use phones, tablets, and other devices and collecting gadgets in the evening.
5. Take time to rethink your activities if the family is stretched too thin.
